Proposal won't affect state budget

Budget would boost maximum Pell grants

By JEFF BRITT
Administration editor

President Reagan's proposal to increase the education budget by $656 million won't affect the state budget, but would have an impact on financial aid if passed, said a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Terry Bruce of Illinois.

"Federal funding only accounts for a small percentage of the higher education budget other than financial aid," said Mike Bushman, Bruce's press secretary.

"That's where most of the federal money in Illinois goes in higher education, to student financial aid," he said, adding that the federal budget's impact on states is it "fills in some gaps which are important but not major."

"He (Reagan) actually proposed increasing the amount in Pell grants from $2,200 to $2,300," Bushman said.

"It would increase eligibility for federal financial aid," said John Flynn, Eastern's director of financial aid.

"The proposal includes a 17 percent increase in Pell grants and a 6.5 percent increase in guaranteed student loans," Bushman said.

Ross Hodel, deputy director for the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said, "Our budget was prepared with the federal proposals in mind, but they may not approve that until after our budget is approved."

"One thing the budget does is propose cuts in other forms of aid," Bushman said.

"One of the things he does in the guaranteed student loan program is the proposing that students who do not have a high school degree but have what is called 'an ability to benefit from financial aid' be eliminated from being able to get student aid," Bushman said.

"It will not present any problems at Eastern, because in order to get into Eastern, they have to have a high school diploma or GED," Flynn said.

"I don't think that it would have an impact," said Bob Clement, director of agency relations at the Illinois State Scholarship Commission. "It should not significantly reduce the enrollment."

Bushman said part of the proposal is that assets such as real estate, businesses and farms not be considered when determining eligibility for aid "so that people who own real estate and business or farms will have an extra advantage."

Bushman said that when Reagan first took office, he proposed eliminating the Department of Education.

"Now that he's actually proposed a small increase, we can see that he's come a long way in realizing how important education is in this country," Bushman said.

He said Reagan proposed eliminating the Perkins loan. "That's a major loan program for lower income students," Bushman said. "That probably doesn't have much chance of sticking."

Blood drive picks up pace

CRAIG EDWARDS
Staff writer

More than 400 people donated blood Tuesday, which topped the spring blood drive and exceeded its second-day goal of 375 pints.

The number of pints collected Tuesday, in addition to the 316 pints collected Monday, brings the two-day total to 752 pints.

Mindy Knopf, co-publicity chair for the blood drive, said 6 pints of blood were collected Tuesday. "We were hoping for a goal of 375," Knopf said Tuesday night after a new total was released.

Although 436 pints were collected Tuesday, 472 donors showed up with intentions to donate. The other 36 were deferred because of low iron content or other problems.

Vickie Rumohr, blood services consultant for the American Red Cross, said even though a person is deferred one day because of low iron content, it is possible for them to donate on another day. "The iron content changes daily," she said.

Knopf said the goal was raised from 300 pints on Monday to 375 on Tuesday because the first day is usually slower. "People tend to wait until later in the week before they decide to donate," Knopf said.

Knopf said students and faculty who are afraid to donate blood might not want to wait any longer because Wednesday is Buddy Day. She (See BLOOD, page 5)

Counselor warns students against driving when drunk

JEFF McCOMBS

It was a night like any other, but in a second, something happened which may have changed three Eastern students' lives forever.

The accident occurs frequently, but last Wednesday morning, it hit a student closer to home when two innocent Eastern students were struck down by an alleged drunk driver.

Sometimes it takes an accident to get people up, Counseling Center counselor Claudia Lane said.

You would hope that other people would cut down on their drinking (after an accident such as this), Lane said. "You cannot live for the moment. You have to be responsible and look at yourself and at how much you've had to drink."

Unfortunately it takes an accident like this to open people's eyes." At about 1:20 a.m. Feb. 17 Eastern student Timothy Hamerlinck was coming home from Jerry's Pizza and at the same time, Stephen White and Betty Jo Lotz, 18, were walking down Fourth Street when they were allegedly struck by Hamerlinck's car. Hamerlinck was later arrested and given an alcohol test at about 7:26 a.m. where the level was recorded at .18.

White was injured seriously in the accident, but has been upgraded and is listed in stable condition at Champaign's Burnham Hospital. Lotz was hospitalized at Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center and was dismissed later that Wednesday.

"Hopefully someone will take notice and will learn (from the accident)," Lane said. "For others, it will just go over their head. Some will realize it for the moment and forget about it later. A wise person would remember."

Lane said the belief "it will never happen to me" is not a good attitude to have.

"There are a lot of people around who says it does happen," Lane said. "And that is something people have to live with for the rest of their life."

While accidents may affect people's (See DRUNK, page 5)

Dole, Gephardt triumph in presidential primary

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP)—Sen. Bob Dole scored an impressive victory in the South Dakota Republican primary Tuesday night and bid for a back-up win in Minnesota's presidential caucuses, with Vice President George Bush far behind in both states. Rep. Richard Gephardt won the South Dakota race on the Democratic side.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, bidding for a victory outside his native New England, led in early returns in Minnesota's Democratic caucuses. He was running second to Gephardt in South Dakota.

Bush virtually conceded defeat in advance in both Midwestern states, putting up little effort and focusing instead on the South.

Tuesday's voting gave the field of presidential hopefuls a chance to show electoral strength before the Southern festival of primaries and caucuses known as Super Tuesday on March 8. And Dole, bouncing back from a drubbing at Bush's hands last week in New Hampshire, was making the most of it in his Midwestern home ground.

With 83 percent of the Democratic precincts reporting in South Dakota, Gephardt had 23,849 or 45 percent and Dukakis 15,600 or 30 percent. The also rans were Sen. Albert Gore Jr. at 9 percent, Gary Hart had 6 percent, Jesse Jackson had 5, as did Sen. Paul Simon.

In returns from 80 percent of South Dakota's 1,151 precincts, Dole had 36,789 or 56 percent of the vote compared to 12,546 or 19 percent for former television evangelist Pat Robertson and 11,943 or 18 percent for Bush. Rep. Jack Kemp trailed with 5 percent.

Man condemned to NAACP work

CHICAGO—A 21-year-old white "taught to hate black people" was sentenced Tuesday to perform 200 hours of community service for the NAACP after the man admitted harassing two blacks with a baseball bat.

Cook County Circuit Judge Stuart Nudelman said he hoped that by working with blacks, James Kalafut would overcome his prejudice.

"He has been taught to hate black people for some reason," Nudelman said by telephone after the sentencing. "I'm trying to put him in an environment where he can perhaps do some good and learn something about the people he thinks he hates and perhaps learn that his feelings are misguided."

Kalafut was charged Aug. 16, 1987, after he and a group of other whites brandishing baseball bats, throwing bottles and shouting racial slurs, chased two blacks from a transit stop in Gape Park, a predominantly white neighborhood on the city's Southwest Side.

Nudelman sentenced Kalafut into the judge's supervision for one year and ordered him to perform 200 hours of community service work for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

U.S. Marine's kidnappers caught; mastermind of plot remains at large BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The main Shiite Moslem militia has caught three gunmen who kidnapped a U.S. Marine officer serving with the United Nations, but not the mastermind of the abduction, security sources said Tuesday.

The United Nations has approached Iran, Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization, which have influence in Lebanon, seeking help in the search for Lt. Col. William R. Higgins, U.N. spokesman Mario Zamorano said in New York.

Zamorano said the contacts were made by Undersecretary-General Marrack Gouldino, who was in the region when Higgins was kidnapped last Wednesday. The 43-year-old Marine from Danville, Ky., is a decorated Vietnam veteran and was an aide to former U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

The relatively moderate Shiite militia Amal has seized 42 suspects in a clampdown on Shiite fundamentalists since Higgins was abducted near Tyre, 50 miles south of Beirut, an Amal spokesman said on condition of anonymity.

Amal has been the dominant force in predominantly Shiite south Lebanon but is being challenged by Hezbollah, which is loyal to Iran and believed to be an umbrella for Shiite radical groups that hold most of the 25 foreigners missing in Lebanon.

Nine Americans now are among the missing foreigners. The hostage held longest is Terry A. Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, kidnapped March 16, 1985.

A security source, who also would not let his name be used, said those rounded up by Amal include "the three gunmen who seized Col. Higgins and forced him into the first getaway car."

Three other Shiites held by Amal questioned the suspects but found they did not know the whereabouts of Higgins or the man who planned the operation.

"The mastermind used five identical brown Volvo cars plus two additional getaway cars, a white Peugeot and a red Mercedes, in the abduction," he said. "The squads in each car did not know who was in the other cars."

A group calling itself the Organization of the Oppressed on earth said it abducted Higgins and claimed he was a spy for the "satanic CIA." The U.S. government denied the accusation.

Students enjoy visit to Eastern

JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

It's been said that first impressions are lasting ones, and for 21 honor students from Chicago's Percy Julian High School, Eastern made a lasting first impression.

The students arrived on campus Monday night and spent all of Tuesday for "Percy Julian Day," to give them a first-hand look at Eastern's campus life.

This was the first time Eastern had hosted Percy Julian, and for most of the students, it was their first time on a college campus.

While they were on campus, the students stayed in the residence halls and dined in the residence hall food services.

"This is a nice campus because it's so compact and everyone is so friendly," said 16-year-old Arika Latima, a junior at Percy Julian.

Latima's classmates, Ronetta Lewis and Shalondia Smith, both 16-years-old, were equally impressed.

The hostesses were really nice and the classes were very interesting," Lewis said. "And the campus is so calm here, it's quite a transition from Chicago," Smith added.

Although the visit to Eastern had been the very first one for the three juniors, all agreed they would rank Eastern high atop their list of college choices.

The excitement began when the university treated the students to the Eastern-Northern Iowa basketball Monday night and a pizza party in the Union after the game.

On Tuesday, the students were oriented to campus and attended three mini-classes, including black music, crisis intervention and a class on Afro-american history.

A student panel of minority leaders from Eastern addressed the Percy Julian students on "What it's like at Eastern," and Eastern President Stan Rives presented the students with a plaque at a Stevenson Tower luncheon to commemorate their day on campus.

John Washington, a guidance counselor at Percy Julian who said about 12 of his former students are now enrolled at Eastern, felt the trip was rewarding for his students.

"This is a tremendous experience for them to begin looking at colleges," Washington said. "They get to see things for themselves, they get insight from both the students and the professors, and, overall, they get a really good chance to see what college life is really like."

Depression very normal - director

BETH CARLSON
Staff writer

Depression is a normal condition that can be treated, Counseling Center Director Sanders said Tuesday as part of the workshop titled "Depression is Blue."

Depression is perfectly normal. People that are never depressed are not normal," Sanders said to the crowd of 15 who attended the workshop, which was held in Union addition Rathskeller Monday.

Sanders said depression can sometimes be caused by parents wanting more out of their children than what they "Sometimes parents push you into things you don't want because they never got it," Sanders said.

A videotape shown by Sanders explained what depression is, how it can be genetically passed on from parent to child and the solutions to depression.

If depression lasts more than two weeks, it is considered clinical depression and the depressed person should seek help at this time, the videotape said.

"In college, everything moves so rapidly that I would say you should seek help after one week," Sanders said.

"It depends on the event," he added.

Solutions to depression include drugs, therapy and shock treatments.

The two drugs used to cure depression are Lithium, for severe depression, and anti-depressants, for acute episodes. Anti-depressants can have side effects such as sleepiness, weight gain and toxicity.

For more severe cases of depression, shock treatment is used. This treatment was once harmful, according to the videotape, and could wipe out entire childhood memories when not used correctly.

For less severe cases of depression, psychotherapy or talk therapy is used.

Education needs hike in income tax - Rives

By JEFF SMITH
Staff Writer

Illinois is far behind other states in supporting higher education, Eastern President Stan Rives Tuesday said to the Faculty Senate.

"We're (Illinois) falling significantly behind in our support of higher education as compared with the rest of the country," Rives said.

Rives noted that Illinois hasn't raised the personal income tax since 1969.

"Illinois has the lowest income tax rate of any state that has an income tax," he said, adding Illinois ranks high in per capita income.

Rives said higher education has been affected adversely by the income tax not being raised.

According to statistics Rives introduced to the senate, Illinois' tax dollar support for higher education from fiscal year 1977 to 1987 increased 71 percent. The nation's support for higher education during the same period rose 121 percent.

Illinois ranks last in the United States along with West Virginia in this increased tax support category, Rives said.

In regard to Eastern, Rives said, the school received 6.5 percent less tax dollar support this fiscal year than in 1986-87 because a tax increase wasn't passed by the legislature.

This resulted in a $96 per semester tuition increase for fiscal year 1987, he said.

Rives said he sees three consequences if Eastern doesn't receive increased funding.

One problem he mentioned was a loss of quality faculty members.

"This week, we lost a good faculty member with a doctorate to Ohio State University," Rives said. "We've already lost a top faculty member in the chemistry department (Associate Professor Russell Carlson) to the University of Georgia. This situation will intensify."

Two other consequences he cited were another increase in tuition and reduced student enrollment because of a limited budget.

Rives said he foresees enrollment being curtailed starting in the 1989 fall semester if higher education allocations aren't raised.

Swaggart should practice what he preaches

Once again a well-known television evangelist has fallen into the clutches of sexual sin and relinquished his position of religious leadership.

It was the same TV minister of God's word who several months ago began a crusade to oust evangelist Jim Bakker from the PTL network for immoral behavior with one, now famous, Jessica Hahn.

In fact, Jimmy Swaggart accused Bakker of being a "cancer" that needed to be "excised" from the Church of God. In the meantime, he was practicing a few sexual sins of his own.

While Swaggart was busy quoting scriptures about the sinfulness and impurity of adultery for Jim against Tammy Faye, he failed to remember the teachings of the Bible about condemnation and accusing others of sins.

The Bible teaches not to point out the specks in the eyes of a brother when there is a log in your own. Some might say Swaggart brought the wrath of God upon himself.

This incident is just one in a series of public announcements in the downfall of electronic evangelists. Not only does it tarnish the overall reputation of Christianity, but it weakens the body of believers.

It's leaders such as Swaggart and Bakker that the American people trust to guide and teach them about God. Any position of leadership brings with it an extra responsibility to "practice what you preach" and set a good example.

When a country's political leader commits crime and immoral acts while in office, the public becomes shocked, outraged and then finds itself in need of rebuilding and stabilizing the country.

Christian leaders across the nation need to recover from the blow their reputations have taken and rebuild the faith of their followers.

Swaggart has stepped forward, admitted his fault and asked for forgiveness from the church. Forgiveness is the basis of Christian belief and a good first step to rebuild and stabilize.

"Prostitute" is missing out on benefits

Sunday marked the fall of yet another of the TV preachers from the wonderful world of click-on-a-prayer.

And luckily, the media has been giving us blow-by-blow accounts of the sordid event.

Thanks to the media, we know that Jimmy Swaggart, who, by the way, has an affinity for pornography, "confessed to specific incidents of moral failure."

This is where the situation gets a little fuzzy.

We don't know exactly what happened. All we've been told is that leaders of the Assemblies of God somehow got a hold of pictures of Swaggart supposedly entering a motel room with a prostitute.

While Swaggart tearfully stepped down from his ministry, he didn't admit to actually having sex with the prostitute, just having paid her to perform pornographic acts.

Of course, we don't know exactly what Swaggart considers pornographic, but my guess is it involves more than just a few "Praise the Lords" and "hallelujahs."

But the most important thing we don't know is the woman's name.

In every story and broadcast the woman is constantly referred to as "the prostitute." Her name, her age, her tell-tale scars or her preferences in TV evangelists have never been made public.

What could this woman be thinking?

Hasn't she discovered that the best way for an otherwise no-name actress/secretary/prostitute to make a name for herself is to sleep with a presidential candidate/TV evangelist, then talk incessantly about how she didn't really sleep with him/didn't want to sleep with him/would've slept with him, but he insisted on pornographic acts.

Right now, the woman is unknown to most American households. Although I bet her name is probably commonplace in the Swaggart household, not to mention the fact that her name is probably gleefully shouted in the Bakker household.

However, if the woman were to come forward, she'd be a shoo-in for ABC News Person of the Week and certainly one of People Magazine's 25 most intriguing people.

Look at Donna Rice. She was a nobody until she rendez-voused with Gary Hart. Granted, she probably much just had her Andy Warhol 15 minutes of celebritydom before being ousted out of the limelight as quickly as Hart is being ousted from the presidential primary.

Which is why "The Prostitute" needs to choose as a mentor someone a little closer to her field of study—Jessica Hahn.

This woman went from being a secretary for the PTL to being a permanent fixture at the Playboy mansion.

If "The Prostitute" would only come forward, tell her breasts for a national men's magazine and tell the world what it already knows (that she is not a bimbo), she, too, could live in the same house with a man who never gets out of his pajamas.

So why is she not coming forward? Inquiring minds want to know.

Is it because she feels guilty for causing the downfall of a God-fearing man? Is it because while she was a prostitute at one time, since her escapade with the Rev. Swaggart she has taken up a respectable position on the Home Shopping Network and doesn't want to lose her job as a prize pointer?

Probably not.

She probably just hasn't mastered the American art of reaping the benefits of another's misfortunes.

I give her six weeks.

UPI critics should stick to issues

Editor:

It was disappointing to read the derogatory remarks, attributed in Friday's Daily Eastern News to UPI President Mitchell Vogel, about those of us involved in the drive to decertify the faculty union. In an academic environment, it should be possible to debate issues openly and vigorously without resorting to this sort of thing.

There are real issues that need to be discussed. For example, during the period that UPI has been lobbying for salary money and bargaining for our salaries, the BOG universities have had the smallest increase in average faculty salary of the four state university systems, on both an absolute and percent basis. Admittedly, the climate for higher education in Illinois has not been good, but in the realm of salaries it has been worse for the BOG than for the other three systems. An explanation from the union would seem to be in order.

A second issue involves the union's responsibility to represent the entire bargaining unit, not just the union membership. A recent survey by Dr. Larry Janes indicates that, while most members of UPI at Eastern support fair share, a majority of the members of the entire bargaining unit at Eastern do not. While there are arguments both for and against fair share, the local chapter of UPI should not support it if those they claim to represent do not. Despite this, the general tone of the debate over fair share during the last few months seems to indicate that our local chapter would support it as a bargaining point during the upcoming contract negotiations, but perhaps this impression is incorrect. It would be reassuring if Eastern's delegation to the UPI House of Delegates convention in April would make a public statement that it would oppose any effort to include fair share in the next contract.

There are many other issues concerning the union's proper and actual performance since it was certified to bargain for us. Let us hope that the debate in the remainder of the decertification drive can be confined to those issues and does not result in further speculation about the motives and character of those involved.

History Professor John Haley talks about the standing-room-only crowd at the Union Grand black middle class Tuesday night before a Ballroom.

Haley: Blacks becoming yuppies

MELISSA McCALLA
Staff writer

It appears that the black middle class has lost its "soul" in its quest for social acceptance, said associate professor of history John Haley Tuesday in a lecture as part of Black History Month. The black middle class, which has "emerged quickly and unnoticed," is much like the American white yuppie class, Haley said. He noted the black middle class is well-educated, concerned with political issues, between 20 and 35 years old and drives their "Mercedes and Volvos" much like the white middle class.

However, they differ economically from the white middle class. The average income of a black middle class family is about $7,000 less than that of a middle class family. Therefore, Haley said, it is difficult to compare black middle class and white middle class.

The black middle class seemed to have "abandoned the masses" in order to "keep up with the Joneses," Haley said.

After the black revolution of the 1960s, social and mental distances between middle and upper-class blacks has widened.

Since then, blacks with middle class status have conformed to many of the attitudes of whites, Haley said. They seemed to have lost their "soul or expression of blackness," Haley noted.

"We never want to think that a split second can change our life," Lane said. "One minute we can be happy-go-lucky, and the next minute, bang. It just takes a split second, and you cannot ever relive that moment. You can really torture yourself doing that."

JUDD NELSON WEEK In The Video Lounge:

ATTENTION! ATTENTION! It's Judd Nelson week in the video Lounge. One of his latest and funniest movies, From the Hip, is the first movie of our day which happens to be starting at 10:00 a.m. Judd portrays a Boston lawyer who becomes famous because of his histrionics. This movie examines many unethical law practices used by the legal eagles of today's world. You missed Rockworld the first time, you say? Well at 11:50 you have another chance to catch it. After all of those videos, St. Elmo's Fire starts at 12:50. This is a movie about recent college graduates and what they decide to do with their lives. See how their choices test their friendship. The comedy of From the Hip is being shown again tonight at 7 p.m.

JB speaker to give lectures on job market, interviewing

"Careers of the Future," and interviewing and Resumes," will be the focus of lectures by renowned lecturer.

Dave Swanson, who was named the No. 1 ranked college placement director for nine consecutive years, will give two presentations on what the job market demands from college graduates today.

Swanson has worked with nationally prominent corporations including CBS Records, Mobil Oil and IBM. He has also worked with the U.S. Army and the CIA.

University Board Chair Jeff Lyngaas said, "Swanson will be discussing the careers of the future."

"In the lecture on 'Interviews and Resumes,' topics of discussion will consist of setting career goals, making resumes work and creative job hunting," Lyngaas said.

The lecture "Discussing the Careers of the Future" will take place at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

The lecture "Interviews and Resumes" will be given at 8 p.m. Thursday. Admission will be $1 for students with a valid ID and $3 to the general public.

Senate will hear report on retreat

Student Senate will hear a report on the Senate retreat held last weekend during the regular meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Addition Arcola-Tuscola Room, said Senator Ken Wasetis.

Academic Affairs Chair Tim Taylor said he knows of no new business to be discussed by the Senate.

The loss of the visitor's parking lot across from Old Main will be investigated by Taylor, but he said he will have nothing by the meeting time.

Senators passed out Student Participation forms at residence halls on Monday, said Wasetis. A report is expected by Executive Vice President Trish Nusbaum on the participation in the program, he added.

Wasetis said Jim VanDeVen, student awareness committee member, will probably give an update on the Designated Driver Program.

see what Western and Bradley do."

If Illinois State and Indiana State win both their remaining games, the two ISU's will host the semifinals.

No matter what situation occurs, however, the Salukis of Southern have no chance at hosting. In fact, if last year's Gateway champions lose to Eastern Thursday and Drake wins its final two games (at home against Wichita State Thursday and Southwest Missouri Saturday), the Bulldogs would join the four-team field.

Eastern senior forwards Ann Brown and Kerry Walsh will play their final regular-season home game Saturday at Lantz Gym when the Lady Panthers host Illinois-Chicago at 7:30 p.m.

Brown has started in all 25 of Eastern's games this season and is averaging 7.5 points and 6.8 rebounds per game.

Walsh, a reserve, has played in 22 of 25 Lady Panther games and is averaging near two points and two rebounds in eight minutes of playing time per contest.

In the future, Teverbaugh, a sociology major, would like to try his hand at law enforcement or teaching. "If I could, I would like to coach, but we'll see what happens," Teverbaugh said.

Simcox, a speech communication major, will wait to see what happens at the NCAA Championship before deciding what to do next.

"If it works out, I'd like to go to the Olympic Trials just to see what it's like. If not, I plan on getting my master's in English, go abroad to teach and do some missionary work. Coaching is also something I would like to do.

"I'm really looking forward to the next couple of weeks," Simcox said. "We'll train hard and see what happens, and I hope everything works out for us."

with a list of jokes in her back pocket," D'Abbraccio said. "She would throw out some one-liners in the middle of the game before the inning started. "She was able to do that because of the talent around her which allowed her to play more relaxed," D'Abbraccio said. In addition to being an athletic standout at Eastern, Kassebaum was also Eastern's first Academic All-American. Although most athletes would be satisfied being able to play one sport, Kassebaum ventured into a third sport when her days at Eastern were over. Kassebaum was selected to the 1987 Olympic Sports Festival's team handball squad and won a silver medal for her efforts. Physical education instructor Mr. (William) Buckelley and the coaches (Hilke and D'Abbraccio) were instrumental in getting me involved in it," Kassebaum said. "The whole event of being on a podium with Olympic music playing in the background during medal ceremonies sent "a chill up my spine," Kassebaum said. In addition to working with the guards on the basketball team, Kassebaum also puts her in at Eastern's Adult Fitness Program. Kassebaum returned to Charleston after a head-coaching stint at McKendree College in Lebanon, Ill., and said if the offer was right she would go back to coaching. But for now, the 26-year-old Kassebaum is satisfied working in Adult Fitness and plans to continue pursuing that line of work. Coaching with Hilke and D'Abbraccio is a learning experience just like Kassebaum's playing under their tutelage was, she said. "I enjoy it. They are good teachers whom I have great respect for," Kassebaum said. "I enjoy seeing the other side of things." Although Kassebaum said the style of play hasn't changed much since she graduated in 1983, she thinks the quality of today's athletes have brought it to a higher level. "I was involved in the beginning parts of women's basketball and women's sports here at Eastern," Kassebaum said. "Sometimes I think I came along too soon." Yet Hilke said: "She really was the backbone of our success of creating a winning attitude here."

Two-sport star returns as graduate assistant

Kassebaum brings records back

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Describing Nancy Kassebaum's impact on women's athletics at Eastern is like describing a Michael Jordan slam dunk—"awesome."

Kassebaum, who played both softball and basketball at Eastern from 1979-83 and is currently a graduate assistant coach for this year's Lady Panther basketball team, holds or shares 14 school records in those respective sports.

Her most notable accomplishments include being Eastern's all-time leading scorer (male or female) with 1,865 points, all-time assist leader with 711, all-time steals leader with 495 and an all-time high career batting average of .337.

It's pretty remarkable considering Kassebaum didn't plan to attend college.

"Originally, I wasn't planning on going to school, but my best friend brought me here two weeks before the first day of school and I got in," Kassebaum said.

The Belleville native did receive a partial softball scholarship upon entering Eastern, but she walked on to the basketball team and played without a full scholarship until her senior year.

Although Kassebaum played two sports, she said basketball was her favorite because of the challenge it presented.

Women's basketball Coach Barbara Hilke said Kassebaum's greatest asset was her first step on a drive.

"She just blew by people," Hilke said. "She had extremely strong wrists, great hands and excellent court vision and awareness."

Hilke described Kassebaum as a quiet, yet intense floor leader who loved a challenge and who wanted the ball when the game was on the line.

"People knew they had to raise their level of play to hers," Hilke said. "Less than your best was not good enough for Nancy. She loved people to challenge her, and she wanted the ball late."

Kassebaum credits former Lady Panthers Linda Ellsworth (1976-81) and Sandy Thorpe (1977-81) for showing her how to handle herself on and off the court.

"My freshman year here they influenced me as far as what kind of people they were," Kassebaum said.

Despite being a standout scorer, Kassebaum said she liked the challenge of finding the open player for the assist as well.

"I like to see a pretty pass. I guess I always knew in the back of my mind that I could score if I wanted to, but I received more satisfaction from burning a defensive player by setting somebody up for a basket," Kassebaum said.

As a softball shortstop, she was unparalleled according to women's Assistant Head basketball Coach Deanna D'Abbraccio, who coached Kassebaum on the softball field.

"She was by far the best shortstop that ever played here and quite possibly the best that ever will play here," said D'Abbraccio.

"We had a lot of close pressure games, and she would come equipped

Senior grapplers ready to face final challenge

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

When the Eastern Illinois wrestlers went into the 1987-88 season, they knew they would be pretty young, with only two seniors, Henry Teverbaugh and Chris Simcox, on the squad.

These two grapplers now face one of their biggest challenges—the 1988 NCAA Wrestling Championship, which begins with the NCAA Western Regional this weekend at South Bend, Ind.

"My dad was an all-state football player," Teverbaugh said. "He's the one who got me into wrestling when I was young, and I enjoyed it. My high school coach (at Bloom Trail), Ron Ray, also helped me when I was wrestling, and he influenced me as well."

Simcox got into wrestling in junior high school, thanks to a "coach who asked me to come out," Simcox said. "I had a brother who wrestled at Joliet Catholic, and he influenced me, too."

Both of them went to the Illinois High School Association state tournament, the younger Simcox going three times but never placing. Teverbaugh's team, on the other hand, won the 1982 state Class AA championship.

"Even though I never placed, just going there was a big thrill," Simcox said.

"I wanted to wrestle at a Division I school," Teverbaugh said of his decision to come to Eastern. "It's a really nice school, and I haven't had any regrets about coming here."

"My dad also wanted me to go to college," Teverbaugh said. "It's really turned out very well for me here," said the Steger native.

"I had a few offers, but Eastern had the best deal for me," Simcox said. "It's the type of school I wanted to be at academically. (Eastern Coach) Ralph (McCausland) recruited me, and I haven't regretted coming here at all. These last 3½ years here at Eastern have been the best of my life."

"They've both improved since they got here," McCausland said. "Chris has the natural ability to wrestle, while Henry wrestles from the heart. They're both really super guys to have around—the kind of people you like to have on your team.

"They've both been a pleasure to work with," McCausland said.

Both Teverbaugh and Simcox have some ideas about the professional version of their sport, though. "Pro wrestling is nothing more than glamour," Teverbaugh said. "People just like to see guys who weigh about 250 (pounds) throw each other around. It's nothing like Olympic wrestling, which is the ultimate in wrestling."

"Mostly, it's nothing more than show-biz, but I guess it's

Gateway playoff picture still blurred

Lady Panthers clinch spot; opponent not determined

Lady Panther Notebook/Barry Bottino

Although Eastern's women's basketball team has clinched a spot in the Gateway's four-team, post-season tournament, who and where the Lady Panthers will play is still up in the air.

The possibilities begin with the Gateway's top team, Illinois State, whose 13-3 record puts the Redbirds one-half game ahead of Eastern.

In third place lies the Indiana State Sycamores, who dropped a 60-59 decision to Eastern Saturday in Terre Haute, with a 12-4 mark, while Southern Illinois-Carbondale's 12-5 record leaves the Salukis, who host Eastern Thursday, currently holding on to fourth place.

For the Lady Panthers to host at least a semifinal of the tourney, Eastern needs to beat Southern Thursday in Carbondale and hope for one loss by either Illinois State or Indiana State in their final two league games.

Illinois State travels to Bradley (5-11 in Gateway play) Wednesday and takes on Western Illinois (2-14) on Saturday. The Lady Sycamores of Indiana State play at Western Thursday and at Bradley Sunday.

Eastern Coach Barbara Hilke is hoping Illinois State's early-season 110-45 pounding of the Westwinds in Normal will come back to haunt the Redbirds.

"That gives those people (at Western) the confidence they need," Hilke said. "We just have to sit back and wait."
